Hotel Room Photo Gallery: The Ivy at Verity

Posted by Alicia Cox Friday, February 20, 2009 11:44 AM

Last week, I was invited to take a sneak peek at Toronto's newest boutique hotel, The Ivy at Verity before it opened its doors on February 13th. Verity is something special in the city, a 55,000 square foot private club for women with the full-service sweetgrass spa, fitness centre, yoga studio, business facilities, meeting rooms and private dining by George, one of Toronto's best restaurants. Located in a restored 19th century chocolate factory, it's a beautiful space with exposed brick and gorgeous design by Trianon Interior Design.

Verity founder Mary Ailken was inspired by small boutique hotels of Europe, and opened The Ivy with four luxury rooms. Guests have access to all the club facilities and yes, men are welcome, just not in the spa! Each room has a luxurious $19,000 Hästens bed, made from all-natural materials - it's the only hotel in the world to offer Hästens beds to all guests. Believe me, you'll sleep like you never have before. For reservations, visit theivyatverity.com.

The Blue Room

This one was my favourite. All the rooms have all-natural Hästens beds, the "world's finest" and $19,000!
